REPORT ON ORGAN & BODY DONATION AWARENESS SESSION

An awareness session on Organ and Body Donation was successfully organized at SVJCTs Samarth Nursing College by the Department of Anatomy, B. K. L. Walawalkar Rural Medical College, as part of the Organ and Body Donation Awareness Week.

Organ and body donation are considered among the highest forms of humanitarian service. Even after death, an individual can give new life to others through organ donation. Donating organs such as the heart, liver, kidneys, eyes, and lungs can save or significantly improve the lives of many patients in need. Similarly, body donation, which involves donating one's entire body after death for medical education and research, plays a vital role in enhancing the quality of healthcare by helping medical students gain practical knowledge.

In alignment with this noble cause, the Department of Anatomy conducted awareness sessions at various locations throughout the week. As part of this initiative, a session was also organized at SVJCTs Samarth Nursing College to create awareness among the teaching staff, students, and other employees.

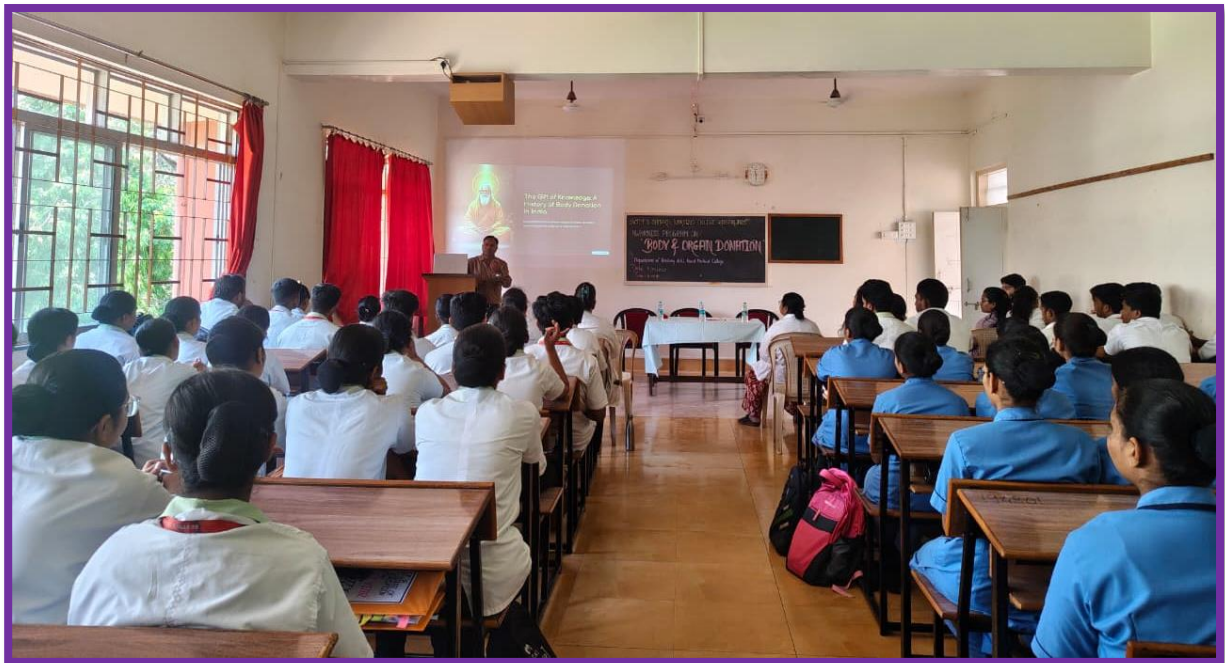

The session was held on 11th April at 11:00 AM. Doctors from the Department of Anatomy and MBBS second-year students were present for the program. The session began with a warm welcome of the guests by the Principal of the Nursing College with a bouquet. An MBBS second-year student delivered the introduction to the session.

Dr. Santosh Kumar Bhise from the Department of Anatomy provided detailed and insightful information on various aspects of organ and body donation. He explained what organ and body donation mean, who can donate, where and how donations can be made, the time limits involved, and the procedures to be followed, including how and where to fill out the necessary forms. He also emphasized the importance of organ donation in saving lives, restoring vision to the blind, and promoting a sense of humanity in society. Furthermore, he elaborated on the significance of body donation in medical education, research advancements, and the development of new treatment methods, highlighting its invaluable contribution to society.

Following this, MBBS second-year student Miss Anjali Swami presented a heartfelt and emotional poem on organ donation, which deeply touched the audience. At the end of the session, a video prepared by MBBS students highlighting the importance of organ and body donation was shown to all attendees.

It was also emphasized that even today, many people have misconceptions about organ donation due to religious or social barriers. Therefore, spreading accurate information, clearing doubts, and developing a positive outlook toward donation is essential. The video effectively conveyed this message to the audience.

The concept of “giving life even after death” truly comes to life through organ and body donation. The session concluded with a collective pledge encouraging everyone to participate in this noble cause and become a ray of hope in someone else’s life.
